Bodine to Award DDL To University Shmoo

Did you ever see a Shmoo walking? Or talking? Or shmooing?

Of course not. Because only one man, and he the fabulous P. T. Barnum, has ever owned a real life shmoo.

That was away back in the nineteenth century when the famous circus magnate was roaming the earth for unknown species of animals to be used in his "greatest show on earth". But possessed by the belief that the Shmoo would become the ruination of the mankind, Barnum dared to transport but one from Bobtonia, the valley in which they were first discovered. That Shmoo was brought to Bridgeport and kept on the Barnum estate, part of which now is owned by the University.

Kept Secret

However, Barnum did not present his Shmoo to the world as he felt that the world's civilization was not as yet ready for this truly amazing animal.

The story of the odd coincidence by which early this month members of the student body happened upon the secret of the Shmoo just at the time Al Capp had L'l Abner do likewise in the Valley of the Shmoon (in reality Bobtonia) is already common knowledge. All the world is now watching the University to see if the Shmoo will actually be resurrected before this coming Saturday as predicted by members of the newly formed student organization, The Society for the Advancement of the Shmoo.

It's No Gag

Some are skeptical; such a thing couldn't possibly happen! Others are viewing the activity of the "Shmoosday" committee with sarcasm, saying it's all just a publicity stunt to get the townsfolk to participate in and attend the various functions being staged during "Gridiron Week", the climax of which will be the world premiere of the University's first football squad.

So impressed by the usefulness to which the Shmoo could be put if properly controlled, however, the Student Steering Committee has thrown some of its best men into the preparation of the "Shmoosday" celebration which will be held Saturday, September 25, the day of the opening game.

To Receive Degree

The Committee has requested the Student Council to award a DDL degree (Doctor of Delightful Living) to the Shmoo.

Greatly impressed with the idea, the president of the Student Council, John Cox, has asked the president of the Bridgeport Chamber of Commerce to award the degree in behalf of the entire student body. Mr. Bodine has agreed to do so during the half-time break at the Candlelite Stadium this Saturday night.

Once the Shmoo is brought back to life, students have been warned to maintain a constant guard over it so that it will not be snatched away by some of Capp's henchmen. In the meanwhile the Student Steering Committee is demanding that Al Capp give up all claim to the discovery of the animal. If the differences can be settled, Capp will probably be in town Saturday for the presentation of the degree.

HAPPY SHMOOSDAY!

SC Advisory Committee Set-Up Soon

The initial meeting of the Student Council will be held Monday afternoon, Sept. 27, in the Fones Annex Lecture Room to discuss, among other matters, the formation of the Student Council Advisory Committee, it was disclosed this week by John J. Cox, president of the council.

Cox said that all members of the faculty as well as members of the student body have been invited to attend the meeting which is open to the public.

"The chief purpose of the meeting", the council president said, "is to get the Student Council Advisory Committee operating so that the entire student body will become an integrated unit." Each organization on the campus with a membership of 25 or more will have a representative on the Advisory Council, Cox said. This differs from the SC in that representation in the SC is based on the four college classes.

Other Committees

The Council President will also receive nominations for membership in the Campus Commission of the National Student Association. Cox explained that this commission will direct and organize all projects and activities of the National Association which will be carried out on our campus.

Other matters on the agenda for this session include further discussion of the Student Activities Budget and the formulation of procedure for the election of class officers.

Remember the confusion and excitement this young freshman (Bill Wolk) caused as he directed his ambulance driver through downtown Bridgeport to the door of the Klein during the gigantic parade staged in conjunction with the football rally last spring? All agree it was "quite the stunt" except those devilish committee members who promise to make it look like a fire cracker in an ammunition dump come Gridiron Week.

UB Greets New Year with Expanded Academic Program

Trips to the beach, to other neighborhood "meet you theres," to the hinterland, and all the other carefree activities of vacation days will be left behind—or at least severely curtailed—until another summer as over 1,500 students purchase text books and prepare to head back to classes at the University next Monday. They are but a part of the estimated 3,000 students who will be registered with the University during the Fall semester. Fourteen hundred of the remainder will be enrolled in the evening division. Both enrollment estimates are all-time highs for the University of Bridgeport which this year begins its second year as a four year University.

Opening day will be, as in all schools, largely a matter of readjustment to the classroom after the leisurely or in some instances—workaday—weeks of the summer months. But before UB students this year so much as open a book to begin the long grind ahead, they will meet at the Klein, Friday, September 24, for convocation and then immediately afterwards to begin a three day celebration to usher in UB's first inter-collegiate football season.

An outline of events taking place that weekend can be found on an inside page.

Expanded Academic Program

Students returning to UB will find the program of studies and the college facilities greatly expanded. Most obvious of these is the affiliation of Weylister Junior College with the University of Bridgeport, which means that the ratio of fellows to girls should be much improved over what it was last year. At that time it was six to one. Weylister, formerly located in Milford, was an all-girl secretarial junior college.

Established this fall will be the

President's Dance

President and Mrs. James H. Halsey and Vice-President and Mrs. Henry W. Littlefield cordially invite all students of the University in day or evening classes to attend the President's Reception and Dance, on Friday evening, October 1, at 8:30 p.m., at the Stratfield Hotel.

New Regional NSA Chmn. Transfers Office to UB

Word that the regional office of the National Student Association would be transplanted to the UB campus came this week from Chris Parrs, who was elected chairman for the Southern New England region at the national convention of the NSA held at Madison, Wisconsin this summer.

Previously, the office had been located in New Haven on the Yale campus, where it was first established almost two years ago.

Parrs, who will also serve as regional treasurer, succeeds John J. Cox, president of the UB Student Council, who served as temporary chairman since last spring when Robert West of Yale resigned the chairmanship. West is now Vice-President of NSA in charge of International Affairs, and is the only regional student to hold a national office this year.

Ted Harris, air corps veteran from La Salle college, Philadelphia, is president of the NSA.

Region Plans Projects

"Once the office is set up here", the new chairman said, "many new regional NSA projects will be started, one of which will be the publishing of a monthly newspaper to carry news of regional NSA activity. We hope that this will be the beginning of a new era in the history of the University of Bridgeport. If the students and the University officials are willing to cooperate wholeheartedly, I'm sure that our campus can soon become the collegiate capital of New England".

In My Opinion . . . by Clint Hoysradt

Light Line! . . .

The U. B. football team will win every game but Kings Point and Bergen College according to my ouija board. With the lightest backfield and probably the fastest backfield of any college team, big or small, the U. B. football team will cut its niche in collegiate pigskin circles in its early start this fall.

What about this light line? Everyone seems to be prophesying? According to a man who has been facing all sorts of lines, heavy and light, the U. B. line is just what the doctor ordered for the fast backfield we already have. For no less authority than a man who has faced our line, and sees its strength purely from an objective point of view we have Puff Nasta, probably one of the largest guards on any football field, who is currently with the Stratford Yankees. He tips the scales at 230, and bumps into chandeliers any lower than 6'4". In the scrimmage game against the Yankees, Puff had the unfortunate assignment to make a hole through U. B. guard Hank Newman, and although 185 pound Hank didn't argue with nature's inconsistency of poundage, he used his grey matter, and stopped the Yankee back while Puff ran to the nearest scale to check his weight. For a fast backfield, the line has to make room through the opposition line, but fast. Ask Levi Jackson, who last year had time enough before his heavy line opened up to crochet a bedspread. Consequently Jackson, who requires at least a yard to "get his steam up", wasn't at his best. His line wasn't fast enough for him. With Hickman's intentionally light, but brainy line, Jackson will star this year! So will our fast backs.

Future Headliners

Our team, at this writing, has at least two players who will make the above subhead graciously given to those whose spectacular plays give the spectators gooseflesh. One such boy is Chris Schick. At scrimmage, with a mixed line of good and bad line hopefuls, Chris made a total of fifteen yards in five plays, after the first tackler had the death grip! This boy is as hard to hold as a greased pig on a waxed floor. This is accounted for by his high-knee pumping, and his seemingly uncanny sense of timing. On a run he switches that ball like lightning and uses the straight arm with the polish of a veteran. Chris is my nomination as the black horse of the football season. Just for the fun of it, let's watch this boy!

Center Spot Secure?

Another boy whose deeds will be a trifle less sensational, but nevertheless appreciated by those who admire good defensive play, is U. B.'s former third baseman, Tom Arkell. Bucking such veterans as Hank Bednarzyk and Paul Macciocca for the pivot spot hasn't bothered "Arky". He has played "heads-up ball" since the starting whistle. Tom hits hard and low when he tackles; he fades when he should fade, and the whipped cream topping of all this is his sincere team spirit which has been sadly lacking in some of our line and backfield "stars", who, even at this early writing, have taken on the Greta Garbo attitude of, "I want that I should be alone."

No, No, John

Basketball legs that have thrilled thousands, baseball legs that have helped you pitch to hundreds of batters, Johnny Barron, are only human. Why don't you give those weary old pedal extremities of yours a rest? Your fans would rather see you make one "floating lay-up shot" in basketball than see you run a dozen ninety yard touchdowns and burn out those veteran legs of yours. Remember, Johnny . . . you can't expect those underpins of yours to stand the same abuse you've given that fighting heart of yours for the last ten years of highly competitive sport. Give up football this season, and save yourself for the sport in which you

Week's Celebration to Be Climaxed by Game with L.I. At Candlelite, Shmoosday

The climax of Gridiron Week will come Saturday night, September 25 when Leigh W. Carpenter, general chairman of the football steering committee, passes the newly painted pigskin to the University of Bridgeport's first quarterback and says, "Here you are boys, it's up to you to carry the ball from now on. Lots of Luck, I know you'll win." These words will send the purple and white across the field for their initial contest. Preceding this, "Miss Kick-off", the girl we'd like most to tackle, will raise the university flag for the first time over Candlelite Stadium to the strains of "A Toast to Alma Mater."

Many Features

Some of the features of Gridiron Week will be guest appearances and radio plugs on all local stations, newspaper and possible newsreel coverage, a Freshmen picnic at Sherwood Island, a bonfire rally, a Victory Dance at Lenny's Wagon Wheel, a beauty contest for "Miss Kick-off", the girl we'd like most to tackle, a gigantic float studded parade, a mobile parade, and last but not least our first football game.

The parade, which looms as one of the most gigantic parades to be staged in downtown Bridgeport in many years, will take place Saturday afternoon, September 25.

Bands March

Central, Stratford, and Milford high schools, the American Legion Post 34, the Boys' Club, The Police Drum Corps, the U. S. Time Corps, Waterbury, and Blessed Sacrament are some of the organizations who have already notified the football committee, that they would enter a musical unit in the parade. Such university organizations as Beta Gamma Sorority, Theta Epsilon Sorority, the junior and senior classes, Phi Omega Ki, the Social Activities committee, the Student Council, and the Horse Riding Club are among those who have offered to build floats for the parade along with such civic establishments as College of Nursing under the direction of Dean Martha Jayne. Girls enrolled in this college will receive technical training at the Bridgeport Hospital. Some of the other departments enlarged for this year include music, engineering, journalism, finance, marketing, government.

New Instructors

Among the many new instructors hired this summer and fall to teach the increased number of students is Victor C. Swain, who graduated early this month, and who was the first student at the University to receive a Bachelor of Arts degree from this institution. He will be a member of the English department. Swain also has a bachelor of music degree from Yale university.

The names and educational background of all new instructors not heretofore printed in the Scribe or in the Summertime News will be published in the next issue of this paper. Watch for them.

Faculty Agree to Unlimited Cuts

High-lighting the changes in University policy was the Absence Privilege given to students whose names appear on the Dean's List. All such students are to be allowed an unlimited number of absences, but will lose the privilege at mid-semester if the Dean's List Average is not maintained.

It should be noted in this connection that the Dean's List is only issued twice during the school year; once after the Fall semester and again at the close of the Spring

Scribe, Wistarian to Have Office In Fairfield Hall

A sudden reverse in administrative planning was the underlying factor behind the announcement this week that the Scribe office would remain on the Fairfield campus for at least another year.

Until this week it was expected in most quarters that many offices including the Public Relations Office, the Alumni Association office, and the Admissions office would be moved to the Fones Hall area. The Scribe and the Wistarian offices were to be located in one of the two buildings housing these offices.

With the exception of the Scribe office which will be moved from South Hall to Fairfield Hall, third floor, all will remain in their present location on Fairfield campus. The Wistarian will also occupy an office on the third floor of Fairfield Hall.

New Staff Members Welcomed

Both Jim Gaffney and Jim Dlugos, editors of the Wistarian (All-College Yearbook) and the Scribe respectively, expect to be rushed from all sides during their staffs' organization period. To make it easier for all concerned, they have asked students who wish to contact them to call at the particular office during the following hours:

Scribe editor: Monday through Friday, 2:15-3:00 p.m., starting Sept. 27.
Wistarian editor: Monday through Friday from 2:30-3:30 p.m.

All-College Yearbook

Jim Gaffney has also announced that for the first time the yearbook will be an All-College affair. That is, it will contain individual pictures of every full time student enrolled in the University. He said, however, that first deadline for individual pictures was Sept. 25, and that under no circumstances would any be accepted after Oct. 15.

Watch future issues of this paper for articles which will explain the many detailed changes in Scribe policies and procedures. Some will explain how students can obtain large commissions by selling ads for the Scribe.

Watch for the return of your favorite columnists, Ray Clarke and Bob Donaldson, as well as the inauguration of at least one, perhaps two, new regular features in the next issue of the Scribe, Oct. 12.

How high can you go

IN THE U. S. AIR FORCE?

The ceiling's unlimited! Men who enter the Air Force as Aviation Cadets become 2nd Lieutenants within a year. From there on, they can climb as far and as fast as their ability and the needs of the service permit. Under the Air Force expansion program, there is plenty of room for advancement. 2nd Lieutenants automatically become 1st Lieutenants after three years of service; are eligible to become Captains, Majors and Lieutenant Colonels after 7, 14 and 21 years respectively. More rapid promotions are frequent. Never before has the opportunity for making the Air Force a permanent career been so favorable, especially to the men in Aviation Cadet Pilot Training.

Here are the requirements:

Appointment to the Aviation Cadets is open to single men, between 20 and 26½ years old, who have completed two years of college (or can pass an equivalent examination). Upon graduation, Cadets receive their wings and commission, a $250 uniform allowance, and three-year active duty assignment with pay up to $336 a month. Brains Get Break Vacation is over. The "rat-race" has begun." So here goes.

Best news of the year was the announcement that students on the Dean's List would be allowed an unlimited number of cuts during any semester. Question now, however, is whether the Dean's list will increase or decrease under this system. Individual instructors possess the key to that answer.

Despite the "rough sledding" Rosa Racamato had in publishing the Wiscarian this past spring, Jim Gaffney & Company have volunteered to edit this year's all-College yearbook. Jim, who was instrumental in re-organizing the Scribe staff and putting it back onto its feet last fall when he became Managing Editor of this paper, has many students working with him who are experienced in organization and in publishing.

There's Ed Flynn, Ray Folkman, Steve LePage, Jim Fitzsimmons, and Matty Morris, besides a host of other upper classmen who have already agreed to stake their reputations on this yearbook.

Important Notice: All individual pictures to be used in the All-College yearbook must be in the hands of the editor not later than Oct. 15. That's less than a month away, so better get that hair curled, etc.

That Low Noose

Watch next issue of the Scribe for a feature story of all those from our campus community who got caught in the marriage net during the summer vacation. Almost a dozen took "those fatal steps" the Saturday after summer session closed!

Special note to all freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors: Under the new Scribe policies you can receive a ten per cent commission on every ad you sell for the Scribe. Looks insignificant, I know, but read on.

You will be given a chance to renew that account each Fall and if you can, the commission will be yours as long as you remain in UB. After two or three years, the ambitious student will be earning a nice little commission each week.

read and think about the following, which is a reprint from Feb. 20, 1948 issue of the SCRIBE. Identical conditions exist this term—only more so.

"You have enrolled in a university which is expanding and modernizing in every possible way. New traditions are being made, and new precedents set wherever you go on the campus.

Students with constructive ideas and the ability to carry them out are welcome in almost every organization on campus. Look them all over carefully, then join the one or two that will benefit you the most. Association with at least one club, organization, or society on the campus will help make you a better citizen both of your campus community and of the world at large."

term. The grades a student obtains at midsemester, then, can cause a student to lose his Absence Privileges, but they can not place him in that select group.

For the Rest

Students on Probation and Students on Trial are to be allowed NO ABSENCES except those due to illness and those pre-excused, according to the new policy.

"The academic status of all remaining students is subject to review by instructor and Personnel Office" reads the new Department Code, "when their absences in any course exceed the credit hours for that course (two tardinesses being considered equivalent to one absence), at which time the instructor may urge debarment."

Freshman and all students enrolled in the University for the first time fall into this category.

A Faculty Project

Members of the faculty who worked on the committee that proposed the above outlined changes were: Mr. Charles Jacobs, chairman; Mr. Robert Akers, Mr. William Allen, Miss J. Marie Anderwald, Mr. Floyd Brewer, Mr. David Brown, Mrs. Doris Hoffman, Mr. Harry Kendall, Dr. Ralph Pickett, and Mr. Alfred Wolff.
